Please join the health informatics graduate students as they present their spring semester capstone projects. These projects require students to engage in a serious professional study of some important problem or opportunity within their host organizations.